Dear Tony

I found the PEP program very useful and one of the better training programmes that I have attended.

Prior to undertaking PEP, my work volume had increased rapidly over a relatively short period of time. While I was trying different ways to cope with work and information flows, I had not developed a system that was working effectively. Through PEP I developed a system that works.

PEP is a practical program that gives results very quickly. For me, the first day saw a dramatic change in the way that I worked. PEP has given me more control over the working day/week, reduced my working hours and reduced my stress levels.

I am now investing the time I have saved through PEP in concentrating on team building by planning work loads and priorities over the next 6 - 12 months.

By having all the team undergo the training, this in itself, has built teamwork. The major tool that the team received was centred on medium term planning and how to "work" (managing email and information flows).

Yours sincerely
